

History Subject Rationale

KS1

Pupils should develop an awareness of the past, using common words and phrases relating to the passing of time. They should know where the people and events they study fit within a chronological framework and identify similarities and differences between ways of life in different periods. They should use a wide vocabulary of everyday historical terms. They should ask and answer questions, choosing and using parts of stories and other sources to show that they know and understand key features of events.

They should understand some of the ways in which we find out about the past and identify different ways in which it is represented. Historical Enquiry Prior Knowledge Key Concepts Year Term Rationale Throughout EYFS, children will have opportunity to explore books, Change and both fiction and non-fiction, to support with their knowledge and Continuity understanding of the wider word. Through celebration of birthdays and key events, the children will begin to understand the concept Society of time and the past. Through discussion, the children will have an opportunity to share and make simple comparisons between lives. Children can discuss and share ideas about how their grown-ups' lives compare to their own, beginning to embed the key skills that will be developed in Year 1. National Curriculum Link: Changes within living memory All about me (My Reception: Introduction to History Change and continuity Family Album) and events that happen Focus: What is my Following on from their Historical exploration in EYFS, the children throughout their lives (Christmas, Concepts past? will develop an awareness of their own lives and events within this. birthdays etc) Society Past They will develop a basic understanding of how their life compares with the lives of family members. Children will be introduced to the Timeline Autumn Year 1 skill concept of chronology by creating a timeline of significant events within their own lives. Throughout this unit, children will have an opportunity to ask questions about their lives in the past, comment on how they have changed over time and make comparisons between their lives at different times. A key element of this topic is for children to gain a secure understanding of the past and beain to understand what we can learn from sources. This will create a link to their Spring topic of exploring how toys have changed in the past.

Soirce		National Curriculum Link: Changes within living memory This topic builds on to further develop the concept skill of chronology in a context in and beyond their own lives. Using a familiar and interesting subject matter, the children will begin to describe the differences between ways of life at different times using a range of sources including stories, pictures, photographs, and artefacts. Explore toys of different genders and colour. With support, children will create a timeline outlining how toys have changed from the past up to now. This will allow children to make comments and suggestions about how and why toys have changed, building on a comparison between toys in their lives and toys from their Grandparents' era. The topic will conclude with an exploration of how toys have changed in the past – introducing the concept of continuity and change.	Reception: Introduction to History and events that happen throughout their lives (Christmas, birthdays etc) Year 1 Autumn: introduction to chronology and how things have changed within their own lifetime.	Change and continuity Concepts Technology Society Trade Industry Civilisation
Journs	Rosa Parks Focus: Why do we remember Rosa Parks?	National Curriculum Link: significant individuals who have contributed to national and international achievements This unit introduces the term 'significance' and allows the children to begin to consider the impact an individual made on the lives of people at the time, and as a result, in today's world. This unit will also touch on the concept of cause and consequence, something that the children will further develop in Autum Term of Year 2. They will consider the impact of the Mongomery Bus Boycott and the consequences that it brought, including how people were affected. By teaching this unit in Summer Term, the children have been able to explore ideas as a whole throughout Year 1 and are now more able to apply their skills to consider a significant individual. This unit allows children to consider the diversity of life and how different people were affected by decisions in the past, and in life today. The unit will be concluded with a decision on why and how we remember Rosa Parks, considering the impact and significance of her life and achievements.		Concepts Society Evidence

	Autumn	Great Fire of London and Gateshead Focus: How did the Great Fire change London?	National Curriculum Link: Event beyond living memory that are significant nationally or globally// significant historical events in their own locality. At the end of Year 1, the children were introduced to the concept of 'Significance'. This unit allows children to further develop their understanding of significance in relation to events in the more distant past, both locally and elsewhere in Britain. Children will expand their source use and begin to extract evidence from maps, eye-witness accounts, and written sources. They will use the sources to explore why events happened and what the results of the events were. This topic provides them with a new opportunity to explore different versions of the past and begin to explore how sources of information may not be as reliable as they seem.	Year 1: explored significant individuals and significant event in the distant past; explored a range of sources including stories, pictures, photographs, and artefacts.	Cause and Consequence Concepts Settlements Artefacts
Year 2	Spring	Grace Darling Focus: Why is Grace Darling remembered today?	National Curriculum Link: The lives of significant individuals in the past/A local history study This unit allows children to explore the impact of a significant individual, whilst also comparing this with a local event, the George Elmy lifeboat disaster (1962). Learning will begin with an insight into the early life of Grace Darling and allow children to create a timeline highlighting key events leading up to and after the disaster. The children will have an opportunity to explore significant events within her life and compare her life to modern day, focusing on the similarities and differences. There are opportunities to explore how sources of evidence can result in varying interpretations of the past. This unit allows children to use sources as evidence to reconstruct the past and make comparisons between the two events. The unit will conclude with an enquiry into how she is remembered today.	Year 1 Summer: Exploring a key individual and exploring the significance that events surrounding her work.	Significance Concepts Travel and exploration Society
	Summer	Florence Nightingale and Mary Seacole Focus: Why do people remember Florence and not Mary?	National Curriculum Link: the lives of significant individuals in the past who have contributed to national and international achievements. This unit will allow children to research the significance of two individuals, both of which have work that relates to today's society, during the global pandemic. The children will comment and compare the work of the two individuals to reach a conclusion as to why Florence Nightingale is remembered as more favourable than Mary Seacole. The purpose of this unit is to allow the children to compare the similarities and differences of their work over a similar timescale. As the children have previously studied significance when learning about Rosa Parks in Year 1, the children can build on the skills of that unit and apply them deeper to	Year 1 Summer Term: Rosa Parks as a significant individual	Similarity and Difference Concepts Society Chronology Conflict Monarchy consider the work and impact of two individuals. This unit will prompt the children to think about the wider life and impact of their work, as well as considering how life was different during that timescale. As the children begin to consider this, they can apply this to compare and contrast with their own lives and the nursing industry.

KS2			indosity.
Pupils the pe	eriods they times devis	study. They should note e historically valid quest	connologically secure knowledge and understanding of British, local and volume connections, contrasts and trends over time and develop the approprions about change, cause, similarity and difference, and significance. I relevant historical information. They should understand how our knowled National Curriculum Link: Changes in Britain from the Stone Age to	iate use of historical terms. They sho They should construct informed resp	uld regularly address and onses that involve
		o.oor.igo	the Iron Age	Change and continuity as a	Continuity Focus: How did life	1110 110117190	disciplinary concept.	Commeny change from the	Children will develop their skills in comparison; there is a heavy		Concepts
		Stone Age to Iron	focus on change and continuity from the Stone to Iron Age and on		Farming
		Age?	how we can know about life 9,000 years ago. Timelines will be used		Lifestyle
	٤		to build upon children's understanding and use of chronology-		Settlements
	Autumn		related language and develop the children's strategies in		Conflict ≼		describing how long ago an event was. Strong links with thinking		Belief
	Α		and problem-solving skills, as children begin to understand how `		evidence is used to make historical claims. Case studies of Skara Brae and Stonehenge give the children a chance to use visual sources and artefacts, linking to the built environment, to identify and describe reasons for, and results of, situations and changes.
3			They explore why Stonehenge was built and establish ways to Year 3			identify what life was like at sites like Skara Brae.
e G		Ancient Greece	National Curriculum Link: Ancient Greece – a study of Greek life	Year 2: Summer – concept of	Similarity and >		Focus: Were all people	and achievements and their influence on the western world	similarity and difference	Difference treated the same in Ancient Greece?	This unit is placed to allow children to build a chronological	Year 3: Stone Age to Iron Age	Concepts sequence into early history. It allows children to make a	(life in Britain)	Society comparison and link between the Bronze Age in Britain and		Education ס		Ancient Greece. To develop the skill of comparison through		Legacy
	Spring		exploring similarities and differences, the children will use sources to		Beliefs
	ā		investigate and interpret how people were treated in Ancient		Monarchy
	S		Greece, including making comparisons to life in Britain. They will conclude the unit with their own enquiry into whether people in Ancient Greece were treated differently. This unit enables children to understand the characteristic ideas, beliefs and attitudes of Ancient Greece and explore the theme of diversity – the role of women, religion, and democracy on daily life - using evidence from wide-ranging sources.

	Summer	Roman Empire Focus: What influence did Julius Caesar and the Roman Army have on the Roman Empire?	National Curriculum Link: the Roman Empire and its impact on Britain The purpose of this unit is to allow the children to build a chronological sequence of time periods. This unit will then be followed by an in-depth study into Roman Britain during Autumn Term of Year 4. In order to focus on the concept of cause and consequence, this unit allows children to relate their learning to the Roman Army and the changes that it brought to Britain. The children will study the influence of Julius Caesar as a leader, his rise to power and describe the impact of his leadership on the people of his land. This enquiry is the first exploration into the Romans, exploring the nature of the early Roman Empire and the reason for its strength and early growth. Children develop their KS1 skills in understanding differences between ways of life at different times, exploring the characteristic ideas, beliefs, and attitudes of the early Romans. Children will explore the life of a typical Roman soldier, using evidence to explore historical claims about them and	Y2: Great Fire of London with the concept of cause and consequence. Year 3: Stone Age to Iron Age (life in Britain) Year 3: Ancient Greece	Cause and Consequence Concepts Society Conflict Settlement Democracy/Monarchy Power
		Doman Pritain	understanding their significance. The unit will conclude with an enquiry into the consequences, both positive and negative, of Juluis Caesar and the Roman Army.	Voor 2: Pomon Empiro	Significance
Year 4	Aufumn	Roman Britain Focus: Is Hadrian's Wall the only thing the Roman's left behind?	National Curriculum Link: The Roman Empire and its impact on Britain This unit focuses on the concept of significance in relation to the legacy that the Roman's left behind. This unit builds on the learning from Summer Term in Year 3 with a focus on the Roman Army and the rise of Julius Caesar. The children will study a range of Roman achievements such as sanitation and baths, roads and architecture alongside Hadrian's Wall. This will then allow the children to independently conclude, using evidence from the unit, as to which legacy they believe was the most significant achievement that the Roman's left behind. By teaching this unit here, the children are able to use their knowledge and understanding from Summer Term in Year 3 to conclude the significance of Hadrian's Wall, now they have a solid understanding of Roman life.	Year 3: Roman Empire Focus: What influence did Julius Caesar and the Roman Army have on the Roman Empire? There are direct links to the Celts, Greeks and Egyptians because the Romans would often adapt and improve the achievements of those civilizations –	Concepts Culture Trade Settlements Achievements and legacy Beliefs
	Spring	Anglo- Saxons Focus: How were the Anglo-Saxons influenced by Christianity?	National Curriculum Link: Britain's settlement by Anglo-Saxons The enquiry will begin in understanding the connection to the Romans - in the years after their departure from Britain, Angles and Saxons from Germany and Jutes from Denmark settled in various places across what is now England. This unit allows the children to gain an understanding of how religion has impacted life for Anglo-Saxons. As children have already studied a significant individual,	Year 3: Romans – knowledge of their power and the spread of their Empire. Year 4: Romans – legacy of the Roman Empire	Cause and Consequence Concepts Beliefs and religion Society Conflict Invasion

Tikings Vikings Vikings Vikings Vikings Vikings Vikings Vikings Vikings Focus: How well did the Anglo-Saxons and the Viking get along early of the Kingdown to the Christianity influenced the Anglo-Saxons. National Couriculum Link: the Viking and Anglo-Saxon struggle for the Kingdom of England to the time of Edward the Confessor The Purpose of this unit is to allow the children to compare the Anglo-Saxons and the Vikings get along? Vikings Focus: How well did the Anglo-Saxons of England to the time of Edward the Confessor The Purpose of this unit is to allow the children to compare the Anglo-Saxon and Viking life. As this unit follows the Anglo-Saxons and the Vikings get along? In purpose of this unit is to allow the children to compare the Anglo-Saxon and Viking life. As this unit follows the Anglo-Saxons and begin to independently enquire. As the timescale of the settlements overlap, it allows for a comparison in similarities and differences to be built. The children will draw comparisons, and yes trends between the two in order to answer the enquiry question. This unit allows children to securely understand the two civilisations and their varying ways of life. It also allows children the wo civilisations and their varying ways of life. It also allows children to use obstract concepts such as religion and conflict to relate to previous studies. The children will investigate the Lindisfaren Raid in 793. They will then use this knowledge to explain how the peace treaty was signed and what lead to the Viking control of Britain. This unit will conclude with an outline of this era and the impact that both civilisations? Ancient Egypt. National Curriculum Link: The achievements of the earliest civilisations The children will moke connections, draw contrasts, and analyse trends in the daily lives and treatments of slaves, farmers, and the upper classes. The children will make comparisons Left the provision of the conference of the series of the contrasts. The children will make comparisons the con			this unit allows the children to focus on the influence of Christianity and the changes that it brought. The children will investigate the		Legacy
Vikings Focus: How well did the Anglo-Saxons and the Vikings of England to the time of Edward the Confessor The purpose of this unit is to allow the children to compare the Anglo-Saxons and the Vikings and Anglo-Saxons and Viking life. As this unit follows the Anglo-Saxons and Viking life. As this unit follows the Anglo-Saxons and Viking life. As this unit follows the Anglo-Saxons and Viking life. As this unit follows the Anglo-Saxons and Viking life. As this unit follows the Anglo-Saxons and Viking life. As this unit follows them to make predictions and begin to independently enquire. As the timescale of the settlements overlap, it allows for a comparison in similarities and differences to be built. The children will draw comparisons, analyse trends between the two in order to answer the enquiry question. This unit allows children to securely understand the two civilisations and their varying ways of life. It also allows children to use abstract concepts such as religion and conflict for relate to previous studies. The children will investigate the Lindisfaren Raid in 793. They will then use this knowledge to explain how the peace treaty was signed and what lead to the Viking and the impact that both civilisations? Ancient Egypt Focus: What do we know about Ancient Egypt. They will begin by exploring the societal structure. The children will make connections, draw contrasts, and analyse trends in the daily lives and treatments of slaves, farmers, and the upper classes. The children will make connections, draw contrasts, and the upper classes. The children will make connections of the side of the viking and treatments of slaves, farmers, and the upper classes. The children will make contracts, and the upper classes. The children will make contracts. Sources of information and Ancient Egypt; women had more rights than those in Britain, including the right to own land and property, and to frade and make contracts. Sources of information will vary, but the use of evidence from the			change in religious belief from paganism to Christianity; they will describe the reasons and results of this change by exploring St Augustine's arrival in 597, and how Christianity spread widely over the Kingdom of England to the time of Edward the Confessor The purpose of this unit is to allow the children to compare the Anglo-Saxon and Vikings get along? The purpose of this unit is to allow the children to compare the Anglo-Saxon and Vikings (fig. As this unit follows the Anglo-Saxons tought in Spring Term, the children can use and apply their knowledge to this unit which will allow them to make predictions and begin to independently enquire. As the timescade of the settlements overlap, it allows for a comparisons in similarities and differences to be built. The children will draw comparisons, analyse trends between the two in order to answer the enquiry question. This unit allows children to securely understand the two civilisations and their varying ways of life. It also allows children to use abstract concepts such as religion and conflict to relate to previous studies. The children will investigate the Lindisfarne Raid in 793. They will then use this knowledge to explain how the peace treaty was signed and what lead to the Viking control of Britain. This unit will conclude with an outline of this era and the impact that both civilisations. The focus of this learning will be to develop a sound understanding of life in Ancient Egypt. They will begin by exploring the societal structure. The children will make comparisons between the lives of slaves and women in Britain and Ancient Egypt: women had more rights than those in Britain, including the right to wan land and property, and to trade and make confracts. Sources of information will vary, but the use of evidence from the			will be able to conclude the extent of which Christianity influenced the Anglo-Saxons.
the Anglo-Saxons and the Vikings get along? The purpose of this unit is to allow the children to compare the Anglo-Saxons and the Vikings get along? The purpose of this unit is to allow the children to compare the Anglo-Saxons and begin to independently enquire. As this unit follows the Anglo-Saxons and begin to independently enquire. As the timescale of the settlements overlap, it allows for a comparison in similarities and differences to be built. The children will draw comparisons, analyse trends between the two in order to answer the enquiry question. This unit allows children to securely understand the two civilisations and their varying ways of life, It also allows children to use abstract concepts such as religion and conflict to relate to previous studies. The children will investigate the Lindisfame Raid in 793. They will then use this knowledge to explain how the peace treaty was signed and what lead to the Viking control of Britain. This unit will conclude with an outline of this era and the impact that both civilisations had on Britain. Ancient Egypt Ancient Egypt Ancient Egypt Ancient Egypt Concept Year 3 - Ancient Greece Year 4 - Spring Term - Anglo-Saxons and their varying ways of life, It also allows children to use abstract concepts such as religion and conflict to relate to previous studies. The children to use abstract conclude with an outline of this era and the impact that both civilisations had on Britain. National Curriculum Link: The achievements of the earliest civilisations The focus: What do we know about Ancient Egypt. They will begin by exploring the societal structure. The children will make connections, draw contrasts, and analyse trends in the daily lives and treatments of slaves, farmers, and the upper classes. The children will make connections, draw contrasts, and the upper classes. The children will make comparisons between the lives of slaves and women in Britain, including the right to own land and property, and to trade and make contracts. Significar Society Tr		_			Similarity and Difference knowledge to this unit which will allow them to make predictions and begin to independently enquire. As the timescale of the settlements overlap, it allows for a comparison in similarities and differences to be built. The children will draw comparisons, analyse trends between the two in order to answer the enquiry question. This unit allows children to securely understand the two civilisations and their varying ways of life. It also allows children to use abstract concepts such as religion and conflict to relate to previous studies. The children will investigate the Lindisfaren Raid in 793. They will then use this knowledge to explain how the peace treaty was signed and what lead to the Viking control of Britain. This unit will conclude with an outline of this era and the impact that both civilisations had on Britain. Ancient Egypt Focus: What do we know about Ancient Egypt and civilisation? Ancient Egypt and civilisation? Ancient Egypt because the five sof this learning will be to develop a sound understanding of life in Ancient Egypt. They will begin by exploring the societal structure. The children will make connections, draw contrasts, and analyse trends in the daily lives and treatments of slaves, farmers, and the upper classes. The children will make comparisons between the lives of slaves and women in Britain and Ancient Egypt; women had more rights than those in Britain, including the right to own land and property, and to trade and make contracts. Sources of information will vary, but the use of evidence from the		the Anglo-Saxons and the Vikings get	Anglo-Saxon and Viking life. As this unit follows the Anglo-Saxons	Year 3 – Romans settlements overlap, it allows for a comparison in similarities and differences to be built. The children will draw comparisons, analyse trends between the two in order to answer the enquiry question. This unit allows children to securely understand the two civilisations and their varying ways of life. It also allows children to use abstract concepts such as religion and conflict to relate to previous studies. The children will investigate the Lindisfarme Raid in 793. They will then use this knowledge to explain how the peace treaty was signed and what lead to the Viking control of Britain. This unit will conclude with an outline of this era and the impact that both civilisations had on Britain. Ancient Egypt Focus: What do we know about Ancient Egyptian civilisation? Ancient Egypt and the impact that both civilisations and the impact that both civilisations and the impact that both civilisations are an analyse trends in the daily lives and treatments of slaves, farmers, and the upper classes. The children will make comparisons between the lives of slaves and women in Britain and Ancient Egypt; women had more rights than those in Britain, including the right to own land and property, and to trade and make contracts. Sources of information will vary, but the use of evidence from the		along?	knowledge to this unit which will allow them to make predictions		Travel and exploration Monarchy Trade and their varying ways of life. It also allows children to use abstract concepts such as religion and conflict to relate to previous studies. The children will investigate the Lindisfarne Raid in 793. They will then use this knowledge to explain how the peace treaty was signed and what lead to the Viking control of Britain. This unit will conclude with an outline of this era and the impact that both civilisations had on Britain. Ancient Egypt Focus: What do we know about Ancient Egypt in Ancient Egypt. They will begin by exploring the societal structure. The children will make connections, draw contrasts, and analyse trends in the daily lives and treatments of slaves, farmers, and the upper classes. The children will make comparisons between the lives of slaves and women in Britain and Ancient Egypt; women had more rights than those in Britain, including the right to own land and property, and to trade and make contracts. Sources of information will vary, but the use of evidence from the	nme		settlements overlap, it allows for a comparison in similarities and		Beliefs Settlements
Ancient Egypt Focus: What do we know about Ancient Egyptian civilisation? The focus of this learning will be to develop a sound understanding of life in Ancient Egypt. They will begin by exploring the societal structure. The children will make connections, draw contrasts, and analyse trends in the daily lives and treatments of slaves, farmers, and the upper classes. The children will make comparisons between the lives of slaves and women in Britain and Ancient Egypt; women had more rights than those in Britain, including the right to own land and property, and to trade and make contracts. Sources of information will vary, but the use of evidence from the	Sun		trends between the two in order to answer the enquiry question. This unit allows children to securely understand the two civilisations and their varying ways of life. It also allows children to use abstract concepts such as religion and conflict to relate to previous studies. The children will investigate the Lindisfarne Raid in 793. They will then use this knowledge to explain how the peace treaty was signed and what lead to the Viking control of Britain. This unit will conclude with an outline of this era and the impact that both	, ,	Society
Focus: What do we know about Ancient Egyptian civilisation? The focus of this learning will be to develop a sound understanding of life in Ancient Egypt. They will begin by exploring the societal structure. The children will make connections, draw contrasts, and analyse trends in the daily lives and treatments of slaves, farmers, and the upper classes. The children will make comparisons between the lives of slaves and women in Britain and Ancient Egypt; women had more rights than those in Britain, including the right to own land and property, and to trade and make contracts. Society Trade		Ancient Egypt	National Curriculum Link: The achievements of the earliest		Similarity and Difference and the upper classes. The children will make comparisons between the lives of slaves and women in Britain and Ancient Egypt; women had more rights than those in Britain, including the right to own land and property, and to trade and make contracts. Sources of information will vary, but the use of evidence from the		know about Ancient	The focus of this learning will be to develop a sound understanding of life in Ancient Egypt. They will begin by exploring the societal structure. The children will make connections, draw contrasts, and	Year 3: Ancient Greece	Concepts pyramids and other tombs as burial places means that there is lots of evidence about the lives and riches of the most powerful people in the empire for the children to draw on. Continuing with a key focus of trade, the children will investigate the impact that the River Nile and trade had on the Egyptians, allowing a conclusion of	Year 5 Autumn		and the upper classes. The children will make comparisons between the lives of slaves and women in Britain and Ancient Egypt; women had more rights than those in Britain, including the right to own land and property, and to trade and make contracts. Sources of information will vary, but the use of evidence from the pyramids and other tombs as burial places means that there is lots of evidence about the lives and riches of the most powerful people in the empire for the children to draw on. Continuing with a key focus of trade, the children will investigate the impact that the	Celts in Britain	Food and farming Artefacts Significant Buildings Society

	Coal Mining	National Curriculum Link: a local history study	Previously covered the concept of 'significance' in Years 1, 2 and	Significance
Spring	Focus: How important was coal mining in Murton in the 19th Century?	This local history unit allows the children to investigate their own locality and history of Murton. As Murton is a Colliery Village, the purpose of this study is for children to understand the significance of coal mining and the Murton pit, a place where past generations of their family may have worked. The children can compare the site against how it looks today and how life has changed since the closure of the pit. This unit also allows children to build a comparison of the life of a child working in the mines compared to their life today. During this unit, the children will study data from a previous census to reach conclusions and analyse trends about how mining impacted population in Murton. As the children explore their locality and reach the conclusion that the pit closed, they can comment on this impact and how the changes that it brought. This unit will also link to their Summer topic when they study the Victorian Era which will allow a continuation of comparison between lives of people at different times.	6. Victorians in Summer Term.	Concepts Industry Trade Society
Summer	Victorians Focus: How do education and leisure of Victorian children compare to today?	National Curriculum Link: Significant historical events, people and places in their own locality This unit allows children to make comparisons with life today. They will focus on aspects of children's life such as education and leisure during the Victorian Era; elements that the children can relate to and make comparisons with their life today. The purpose of this unit is to allow children to develop their understanding of continuity and change within the lives of children. They will learn about the industrial developments in the Victorian Era by developing an understanding of the impact that it had on society and the population, particularly children. Children will relate this learning to their own locality to gain an understanding of life for Victorian children within County Durham and the North East. The children will consider why so many families left the countryside for Victorian towns, the influence of manipulated images, and the impact it had on the lives of children in the 1840s. Children will discern how and why contrasting arguments and interpretations of the past in relation to Victorian children have come about. The children will use evidence to make historical claims and reflect on the changes for children within the period, through the introduction of the Child Labour Act and the work of Rowntree & Barnardo's.	Y2 – Florence Nightingale and Mary Seacole during the Crimean War. Y5 – Coal Mining during the time period	Continuity and Change Concepts Society Settlements Monarchy Industry Trade

		NAMA MI		V 5 0 T III	1.1
		WWII	National Curriculum Link: a study of an aspect or theme in British	Year 5 – Summer Term – life and work	Interpretation
		Farana Mallanda and Pfa	history that extends pupils' chronological knowledge beyond 1066	of children. (Victorian Era)	0
		Focus: What was life		Year 1 – Rosa Parks (timescale)	Concepts like during WWII on	The unit will begin with a study into the evacuation of children. The	real 1 – Rosa Faiks (Illinescale)	Propaganda
		the Home Front?	children will study graphs of evacuation data to show how		War/conflict numbers fluctuated. They will then move on to study the		Society effectiveness that propaganda had on the lives of people during		Power
	_		the war, both positively and negatively. The purpose of this is to		Beliefs
	Ξ		allow the children to evaluate sources and depict how different		Education
	5		aspects can be viewed, allowing the children to interpret this Autumn		information as their own enquiry. In order to develop the skill of ⋖		comparison, they will then identify the similarities and differences between the lives and work of men and women. Whilst learning about rationing, children will relate this to consider the changes and continuity that the war had on food supplies in Britain. This unit allows the children to develop their own skill of interpretation to conclude how people were affected by the war. It also allows the children to consolidate the skills required to develop historical concepts such as change and continuity, similarity and difference as well as cause and consequence.
		Medicine and	National Curriculum Link: A study of an aspect or theme in British history	Year 3 – Pre-historic and Ancient	Interpretation
9		Disease	that extends pupils' chronological knowledge beyond 1066	Greek	merpretation
Year		Disease	That exterias popiis chilohological kilowieage beyond 1000	Year 4 – Romans and Anglo-	Concepts
(e)		Focus: How has	This unit allows children to build on their previous learning of a	Saxons	Settlements medicine changed	number of studied time periods to compare and contrast the	Year 5 – Ancient Egyptians and	Society people's lives?	developments in medicine over time. Due to current	Victorians	Beliefs circumstances in Britain today, children can compare the spread	Year 2 – Florence Nightingale and	Discovery and of disease to the speed of the spread of cholera. Children will	Mary Seacole as Nurses	Invention explore a range of sources and evidence to develop their 20		understanding of disease and how the introduction of health and ) L		medicine began to control this. Children will begin this unit by Spring		relating back to previous learning to develop an understanding of 2		medical practices in prehistoric civilisations and Ancient Egypt.
			There will then be an opportunity for children to study the Roman attitude towards health and explore how this was influenced by the Greeks. Children will conclude the enquiry by exploring medical advances in the 20 th and 21 st century to reach a conclusion on the developments of medicine over time. The purpose of this unit is to provide children with a thematic study that they can independently interpret to conclude how medicine has changed over time. This allows children to constantly make connections with previously studied time periods. As children are studying medicine over a longer period, they will be able to interpret how discoveries and inventions have been changed or continued over time and how this compares between time periods.

Summer	Mayan Civilisation Focus: What do I know about Mayan Civilisation?	National Curriculum Link: A non-European society that provides contrasts with British history Children will begin this unit by identifying the chronological context of the Ancient Maya, allowing an exploration into the identification of ways that the past is constructed. Children will continue their enquiry by investigating ancient cities where conclusions can be reached around the life of the Maya. In order to develop the concept of continuity and change, children will explore the religious beliefs of the Mayas. In order to allow a comparison, the children will identify Mayan achievements and compare to the Vikings. Children will continue to investigate the significance of farming on the Mayan civilisation, which will allow reference to the Stone Age developments. The unit will conclude with an investigation to explore how life of a Mayan then compares with those today.	Year 4 – Summer: The life and advances of the Vikings. Year 3: Stone Age to Iron Age Year 5: Ancient Egypt Year 3: Ancient Greece Romans	Continuity and Change Concepts Beliefs Settlements Farming Culture Society